The accessibility to the southern beaches is generally simple and convenient, and it is usually possible to reach them by car.

Some beaches, on the other hand, can only be reached after a walk on paths, sometimes quite challenging.

Most of the southern beaches are very popular with naturists, only in specific areas that, in freedom and respect, coexist with non-naturists.

Generally, the beaches are not equipped with umbrellas and deck chairs, especially the naturist ones.

The water and air temperatures on the south coast are generally about 5° higher than the north coast throughout the year ...
